With respect to claim 19, Tanguay show in Fig.3 a device comprising: means for driving 10 multiple lasers 16a-b arranged in a two-dimensional array defining a plane; means for modulating 30a-b output of light from one of the multiple lasers, means, located between the means for driving and the means for modulating, for electrically connecting the means for driving to the means for modulating while electrically bypassing the lasers, the means for driving, means for electrically connecting and the means for modulating being integrated together as a stack (col.8, l.47-65).

Art Unit: 2828

With respect to claim 20, Fig.3 shows means for redirecting light from one of the multiple edge emitting-type lasers in a direction substantially perpendicular to the plane (arrow from 16a).

With respect to claim 21, Fig.3 shows the means for modulating lies in a plane parallel to the plane and is located for modulating the light exiting the means for redirecting.

With respect to claims 22-23, Fig.3 shows the means for redirecting is located between the means for driving and the means for modulating (arrow between 16a and 30a).
